

The National Law Journal Quotes Partner Richard P. Beem on Chicago Attorneys' Efforts to Seek a More Predictable Patent System

October 3, 2008

The National Law Journal

In this Law.com article, staff reporter Lynne Marek details Chicago attorneys' efforts to seek a more predictable patent system by drafting a set of local patent rules - aimed at increasing predictability - that could be in use as soon as 2009 in U.S. District Court for Northern Illinois. Partner and patent litigator Richard Beem said that such rules might slow the process and add costs.

Read the full article here. [SUBSCRIPTION REQUIRED]