Ulrika Mattsson is an associate with the firm's intellectual property group. Ulrika represents clients on a wide range of brand management matters, in both domestic and foreign trademark portfolios. Her experience with patents, trademarks and copyrights spans a wide range of industries—including beverage and food products, consumer goods, health care services, hospitality and restaurant services, and technology software services.

After attending law school in Lund, Sweden, Ulrika worked as an associate at a local corporate law firm before coming to the United States. She then attended the Northwestern University Pritzker School of Law in Chicago, and later served as senior associate at a Chicago-area corporate law firm where she focused her practice on trademark matters.
