

Lathrop Gage Attorneys Help Lead Missouri Water Forum

August 27, 2008

Lathrop Gage's environmental practice will once again play a leading role in REGFORM's third annual Missouri Water Conference, to be held September 23-24 in Columbia. Aimee Davenport (Environmental - Jefferson City), a member of the original Planning Committee for the Conference, has continued to serve on the Planning Committee this year and will speak on trends in Wet Weather Enforcements.

In addition to Aimee's participation, Jessica Merrigan (Environmental - Kansas City) will collaborate with EPA and MDNR representatives to review new trends in Industrial Storm Water Enforcement and Compliance and David Shorr (Environmental - Jefferson City) and will examine Emerging Issues and Hot Topics in water regulation.

Lathrop Gage regularly provides counsel to local, regional and national businesses, interest groups, associations and individuals on the complex web of federal and state environmental laws and regulations. The firm's environmental litigators handle complex environmental and insurance recovery cases and have a national reputation for successful litigation involving Superfund, confined animal feeding operations, class actions, regulatory matters and insurance recovery and defense.

About Lathrop Gage:

A leading Midwest full-service law firm, Lathrop Gage L.C. has approximately 300 attorneys in 10 offices nationwide - from Denver, Colo. to New York, New York. In 2007, Chambers USA ranked Lathrop Gage's corporate, environmental, intellectual property, litigation, real estate and labor and employment teams among the best in the Midwest. For more information, visit www.lathropgage.com.